API

Subject to these T&C, ORBITVU grants to Users a worldwide, non-exclusive, non-transferable, revocable right (license) to use and make calls to the API solely for use of and in connection with the Site.

Limitation of Orbitvu Liability

1. The User will be held solely liable for infringement of any third party rights, including copyrights and moral rights as a result of adding unlawful Content to the Site, including publishing unlawful Content in Public Catalog. If any third party claims based on the User's unlawful use of the Site are raised against ORBITVU, the User will take, at his own cost, all measures to defend ORBITVU against such third party claims and reimburse ORBITVU for all reasonable expenses that it might incur as a result of such third party claims including the attorney's fee and/or court costs.

2. If the User publishes his Content to the Public Catalog, as described above, all financial claims related to the use of Public Catalog that the User or the Licensees may have against ORBITVU, due to violation of Standard License or Extended License conditions are excluded. If the User or Licensee brings any claim against ORBITVU due to these violations, the User or the Licensee will take, at their own cost, all measures to defend ORBITVU against such a claim and reimburse ORBITVU for all reasonable expenses that it might incur as a result of such a claim including the attorney's fee and/or court costs.

3. ORBITVU does not guarantee the accuracy, completeness, or usefulness of any information on the Site.

4. ORBITVU will make its best efforts to ensure the proper operation of the Site, but it does not guarantee that the User Content will not be lost nor access to the service will be uninterrupted. No claims whatsoever can be raised against ORBITVU should any such Content be lost or access to the Services is interrupted. The User is advised to keep its' own backup of the Content posted to the Site.

5. In no event will ORBITVU liability to the User exceed the amount of all fees paid by the User for the use of Site within the last 12 month period from the date of raising a claim against ORBITVU.

Modification of T&C

ORBITVU can amend these T&C especially if it is necessary to adapt it to changes in legal regulations concerning the operation of the Site or to changes in the operation of the Service.

The amended T&C shall come into force at the moment of their publication on this website of the Site.

If the User continues to use the Site, he/she agrees to the changes made to the T&C.

If the User does not accept the changes of the T&C, he/she should remove the Account from the Site.

Personal data, cookies and privacy policy

1. In order to enable the User to use the Site and Services provided within it, ORBITVU may collect and use the data, including the personal data of the Site Users and individuals operating within Company Account (User's employees, associates, representatives etc.). ORBITVU is therefore a so-called controller of such (personal) data.
2. The (personal) data are treated as confidential and are protected by IT, technical, organizational and legal means introduced by ORBITVU against their unauthorized disclosure and use. In particular, such data shall not be transferred by ORBITVU to other companies or entities for marketing or commercial purposes.
3. The Site uses cookies and local storage technologies primarily to ensure the correct operation of all its features and to observe traffic on the website for statistical purposes.
4. The User has access to his/her data within his/her Account on the Site; the User may edit and delete them.

5. Detailed information about collecting and using (personal) data by ORBITVU in the Site, cookies and similar technologies, data protection applied by ORBITVU and the rights of the data subjects in this respect are set out in the ORBITVU Privacy Policy (available here. See in particular the section "Using the ORBITVU Service"). The ORBITVU Privacy Policy constitutes an integral part of these T&C.

Administrator's Copyright to the Site

1. The Administrator is the owner of the Site and the Site Content, including software, and retains all copyrights thereto, under the (Polish) Copyright and Related Rights Act of February 4, 1994. The foregoing does not apply to User Content posted to the Site by Users which are copyrighted to parties other than the Site Administrator.
2. Users may exercise Administrator's copyrights to the Site, including the right to the Site's software, only insofar as it may be necessary for the use of the Services provided through the Site.
3. In particular, it is forbidden to:
 - a. access in any way the source code of the Site, specifically to modify or decompile the code, circumvent any protections, enhance or customize the software for any other purposes whatsoever, emulate, or reverse engineer.
 - b. distribute the Site's software in whole or in parts, in any form, including lending, lease, rental, licensing, or sublicensing thereof.

Complaints

1. Complaints regarding the Site's operation can be lodged by the User by e-mail to the following e-mail address of the Administrator: info@orbitvu.com
2. The complaint report should contain the complainant's details, a brief description of the complaint, and information how to contact the User.
3. The Administrator will try to solve any problems and issues in time effective manner, but it reserves maximum 10 working days, from the filing date of the complaint, to take action and inform the User about the action outcome.

Miscellaneous

1. Polish laws should apply to all matters stipulated in these T&C as well as to all matters not provided for herein.
2. All disputes arising in connection with the use the Site under these T&C shall be submitted to the exclusive jurisdiction of a Polish court locally competent for the Administrator's registered office (in the city of Tarnowskie Góry (42-600) in Poland). Before going to court, the User is obligated to use the complaint procedure stipulated in these T&C.
4. These T&C come into force on 25 May 2018 and continue to be effective until amended or repealed.
